

FINE PROGRAM FOR TONIGHT AT THE PAVILION

The program for the grand entertainment to be given by St. Mark's Episcopal church this evening has been announced. It numbers promise one of the most pleasant evenings ever offered in this city by home talent. From the sale of tickets, a large crowd is insured. Those who attend will certainly get their money's worth. The cause is one worth of a house that will be compelled to display the sign "standing room only." Each of the numbers is a feature in itself, the program having been arranged with the idea of offering a diversity which will appeal to all. The program follows:

Overture by the orchestra.
Song (selected)—Babe Hackley.
Song and dance character—Babe Hackley. (Late of Weber and Fields.)

Character song and dance specialty—Miss Emma Lombard and Master Elmer Goetz. Talented juveniles. Miss Hazel Perry, instructor and accompanist.

FORD TRIAL BEGINS IN THE DISTRICT COURT

The trial of W. F. Ford, charged with embezzlement, was formally begun yesterday before Judge Averill in the district court. The state's case is in the hands of District Attorney Cleve Baker and Key Pittman, special counsel.

The day was consumed in the examination of jurors. Many were put through the test and nearly as many found wanting. Two have been accepted, but these are subject to challenge. The nature of the examination showed that several days will be consumed in securing a jury.

The defendant Ford is taking quite an interest in his own behalf, assisting the man who has selected to do the talking for him by suggesting questions to be asked the prospective juror.

It would appear from the position taken by the defense yesterday that it will conduct a case based largely upon technicalities. The questioning of the jurors would warrant the arrival at that conclusion.

Attorney Needles saw fit to bring the Daily Bonanza into play yesterday afternoon.

"Did you read that masterpiece in the Bonanza yesterday morning?" he asked of one of the men who was undergoing examination.

"Do you believe anything you read in the Bonanza?" was another of the questions this learned gentleman propounded. He certainly knows what he is doing. His long line of unbroken legal victories and the prominence he occupies as a member of the Nevada bar, make it proof positive that he intends to use every resource at the command of his abnormally-brilliant intellect to land his client high and dry on the pedestal of innocence.

The Bonanza is going to cover the Ford case thoroughly, giving to its readers every detail as it will likely prove one of more than passing interest.

TOGGLE JOINT BREAKS, MANY HAVE TO WALK

When Paul Tarpey and his companions started for Georges canyon Friday afternoon it was generally understood that they would return the same night. However, the way of the automobile is difficult to understand. When it goes it goes and when it doesn't it doesn't. Well, this time, it didn't. Our voyagers instead of reaching their homes Friday night, got back Sunday night at 12 o'clock precisely.

It all happened because the machine lost its toggle joint. The toggle joint is a part of the steering apparatus located in the vicinity of the opium joint.

Tarpey and his passengers were on their return journey. When about fifteen miles from Four-mile station, the toggle joint became unjointed with the result that the car was rendered hors de combat. It was but the matter of fifteen miles to Salisbury Wash, a nice little walk for the crowd. They accomplished that distance in a manner that would make Weston look like a hobo being passed by a train.

Salisbury Wash looked good to the pedestrians who by name were, Tom Kendall, Paul Tarpey, William Mikulich, Harry Stimler, William Lyle, John Nay and O. B. Nay. Mr. Tarpey telephoned from the Wash to Tonopah for another toggle joint and it was sent out the following morning. Our chauffeur then hired a robust mule to carry him back to Four-mile where the automobile was resting. Now, Mr. Tarpey may know how to fasten a toggle joint on an automobile, but when it comes to connecting a mule with that particular piece of machinery he is sadly misinformed. When but a few miles from the Wash, the toggle joint, which had been tied to the saddle, got to working. In the distance the mule discerned a bunch of wild horses. The toggle joint seemed to comprehend. The mule got frisky, threw Mr. Tarpey high in the air and took off across the country like mad, the toggle joint working to perfection.

It was another hike for Mr. Tarpey to a farm house, where he secured assistance. A number of vaqueros rounded up the wild bunch and recovered the mule and the toggle joint. Tarpey went on to the place where his automobile was awaiting him. He connected the toggle joint with the steering apparatus, tied the mule behind the machine and reached the Wash in good shape. Then the journey was begun to Tonopah, the intervening distance lacking any additional sensations.

M'DANN WILL BE GIVEN HEARING THIS EVENING

Upon motion of the district attorney, the case of the people against George McDann was continued from last evening until this evening at 7:30 o'clock. This action was taken because of the absence of the prosecuting witness, W. L. Alberger of the Tonopah and Tidewater railroad who was unable to reach Tonopah yesterday. The defendant has secured the services of Berry and Cole, while the state's case will be looked after by District Attorney Baker.

ROYAL ARCH WILL INSTITUTE LODGE HERE

At a meeting held Sunday evening in the office of Attorney P. E. Keeler of this city, the matter of establishing a lodge of Royal Arch Masons came up for consideration. It was finally concluded to establish that branch of Masonry in Tonopah. The Goldfield lodge was anxious that Tonopah co-operate with it, arguing that it would make a stronger organization if both towns affiliated. However, as before stated, the Tonopah Masons decided that they had enough financial backing as well as enough prospective members to insure a healthy organization in this city. At the present time there are a number of members of the Royal Arch here. It is their intention to send for their demit for the purpose of transferring to and becoming members of the Tonopah lodge.
